THREATS AGAINST ELIAS STEINOUR

Friend Quoted as Saying that Destruction of Three Properties was Threatened. Two already Burned. Told Neighbors of Threats.

With remarkable persistency rumors of foul play figuring in the tragic death of Elias Steinour, who died in Wednesday morning's fire continue to be circulated and some credence is being given them since the discovery Thursday afternoon that he had received threatening letters and that a series of incendiary fires had been threatened in which the Steinour home was included.

It was told by neighbors of the dead man Thursday afternoon that he had received threatening letters at different times and that he was much disturbed. He threatened several times to take his own life. The death of his wife several years ago being one of the things which seemed to make him despondent and which preyed upon his mind.

Mrs. Crouse, who resides at Carr's Hill, near Rothaupt's Mill at Natural Dam, and who was an acquaintance of Mr. Steinour, is quoted as saying that she received threats of the burning of her own home, of the home of Mr. Steinour and of the destruction of Rothaupt's Mill in a similar manner. The mill was burned within the past few weeks and the destruction of the Steinour home Wednesday seems to give some weight to the story.

Mr. Steinour had visited Carr at her home and they were known to be friends. These acquaintances with all the facts seem to think that although no bodily harm might have been done Mr. Steinour before the fire, the house was nevertheless the object of some incendiary's work.

No evidence other than the above stories has been gathered but the keen interest taken by neighbors and acquaintances promises that developments will be unearthed should there be any truth in the theory of incendiaryism.

WANT BOYS TO CULTIVATE CORN

State Lecturer at County Institutes Starts Movement for Adams County Boys to Raise Corn for Prizes. The Plans.

As an outgrowth of the farmers' institutes held in Adams County this week a movement has been launched to start a big corn growing contest in which it is hoped to interest a large number of the farmers' boys of the county. Prof. Franklin Menges, of York, who is one of the state's lecturers at these institutes is interested in the plan and has enlisted the support of County Superintendent Roth and some of the teachers of the county.

The plan was first proposed at the meeting at East Berlin and was enthusiastically received. The idea is to furnish the boys with seed and to let them plant and cultivate their own land. There are four distinct kinds of soils in Adams County, the limestone, granite, shales and mica schist and in each of these a different variety of corn flourishes better than any other. It will be the plan to have each territory supplied with the kind of seed corn best adapted to the soil in that section.

Other counties of the state have adopted the plan which is not only of interest but much value. Prizes are usually given by merchants in various county towns for the most successful "farmer" and the boys always enter into the contest with great enthusiasm.

The prizes are awarded for those raising the most bushels to the acre, tracts of land a fourth acre and larger being used.

It is planned to have a meeting of teachers and others concerned in the corn growing contest in the near future when the details can be perfected and an organization formed for carrying out the work of getting the boys interested and supplying them with seed. Several well known local persons will be selected to have charge of the competition.

HAUL DEPOT ON TRACK

Employees of the Western Maryland railroad will, within the near future, begin work on a number of improvements at Porter's, which are in line with the new work that is being started all along the line.

The passenger station at Porter's is to be moved to a more convenient position and a general re-arrangement of facilities at that place made. It is planned to raise the station off its present foundation and by means of long and heavy timbers slide it over onto the main track, a distance of only a few feet. Then chains will be attached to it and a locomotive employed to pull the building along the rails to the new site. In this way no damage will result to the contents of the station or its exterior and the work of razing and rebuilding made unnecessary.

KEENE A GOOD ONE

A large house greeted Keene, the magician, at the Wizard on Thursday evening and were well repaid for their attendance. Keene has little new but his old stunts are entertaining and mystifying. His "telepathy" in which his wife assisted was specially well done. Keene has not been on the road for some time and his show did not go as smoothly and rapidly as will doubtless be the case after his assistants get several more weeks' experience. The wizard displayed an active temper when delays occurred Thursday night.

COLLEGE DANCE

A dance was given in Glatfelter Hall Thursday evening by the college orchestra and the college band, the former playing the waltzes and the latter the two steps. 3 KILLED, 67 HURT IN PENNSY WRECK

Limited Derailed at Warrior Ridge, Pa.

THREE CARS OVERTURNED

Were Hurled Down River Bank and All Steel Coaches Prevented Greater Loss of Life.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 16.—The Pennsylvania Limited, eastbound, one of the fast Chicago-New York flyers, was wrecked at Warrior Ridge, four miles west of Huntingdon.

A dining car and eight steel Pullman sleeping cars left the track and plunged down a thirty-foot embankment to the edge of the Juniata river.

Of the 102 persons on board the train, three were killed and sixty-seven injured, several of these seriously.

The dead are: Harry A. Mass, New York; Mrs. John E. Tavenner, Washington, and Mrs. M. D. Hall, New York, Pullman car maid.

The condition of more than a score of those hurt, all of whom are in the hospital at Huntingdon, is serious.

The wreck was caused by the equalizing bar of the second of the two locomotives on the train breaking. It fell upon the track, and although the first car, a postal car, passed over it, the next, a steel coach, was derailed. The locomotives and the postal car pulled free, the coach and the nine cars following it leaving the rails.

Had the coaches, each well filled, gone into the river, the death list would have been much heavier. As it was the all-steel equipment of the train probably prevented greater loss of life. The cars held together and there was no splintered wood to wound or trail wreckage to catch fire.

Going fifty miles an hour, the two locomotives working as one, the long red train flashed past the little wayside station at Warrior Ridge, on the banks of the Juniata river. At the instant there was a crash and the train parted. The locomotives and the postal car ran ahead, leaving the steel passenger coaches scattered along the right of way like a pile of toy blocks.

Several of the coaches, turning over and over, rolled down the embankment towards the river. In their plunge they broke off the railroad's telephone poles like grass stems and effectually cut the scene of the wreck from telegraphic communication.

Immediately cries and groans arose from the overturned cars. Being all steel they had not splintered, however, and most of the horrors of a big railroad smash were absent. Those killed or injured had been hurled from their seats to the floors of the coaches or were caught and crushed in the wild fall down the embankment.

Nearly, practically the only building outside of shacks in sight, is the big pumping station of the Juniata Power company. Men from there rushed to the aid of the wrecked train, and the single telephone wire was loaded with messages for help to Altoona, Huntingdon and Tyrone.

A relief train with doctors aboard was dispatched from Altoona, while twelve doctors were taken on at Tyrone. They found plenty for their hands to do when they reached Warrior Ridge.

On the relief trains that had brought the physicians and nurses the first of the injured were taken to the Huntingdon Memorial hospital, in Huntingdon, and an emergency call was sent out to every physician and surgeon in the town. Fourteen doctors, representing the entire medical staff of the place, responded to the call, hurrying to the hospital equipped with instruments and remedies, well knowing that the institution would not be sufficiently supplied for the rush.

U. S. TROOPS ENTER MEXICO Mistake of Infantrymen Causes Great Excitement.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 16.—American soldiers went into Juarez by mistake, and international trouble is threatened as a result.

The soldiers were new men, and a company attempted to go around from one of the international bridges to another on the Mexican side.

The United States troops were stopped by Mexican guards, and the whole town quickly was in arms. Cars stopped running, no American could get across and the river was lined with armed Mexicans doing guard duty.

The Americans were members of a battalion of the Eighteen h Infantry, who came from Arizona Tuesday. They were in command of Lieutenant F. W. Fields, who says that he made a mistake.

Later the Americans were released and the excitement abated.

BANDITS GET $25,000 IN NEW YORK HOLD-UP

Enter Taxicab, Beat Messengers and Escape With Money.

New York, Feb. 16.—Motor car road agents figured in what was in many respects the boldest and most remarkable highway robbery New York ever knew.

The hold-up began at Trinity place and Rector street, just on the edge of the financial district. Three men jumped into a taxicab. One of them put a pistol to the chauffeur's head, while the other two with blackjacks beat the two bank messengers in the car and took a tin box that held $25,000 belonging to the East River National bank.

At Park place and Church street the thugs left the taxicab, jumped into a dark covered touring car, which appears to have taken the place of the wild road agents' horse, and made their escape, leaving but the meager clue to their identity, despite the fact that many persons saw the robbery.

Wilbur F. Smith, sixty-one years of age, one of the bank messengers, was so badly bludgeoned that he is now in the Hudson Street hospital.

Frank Wardell, sixteen years old, the other messenger, was not so badly hurt. He was taken with the chauffeur, Gino Martini, to police headquarters, where they were questioned.

OIL MEN IN BITTER FIGHT

Henry C. Pierce Worst of Rockefeller In Contest For Control.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 16.—In a bitter fight which raged at the stockholders' meeting for the annual election, Henry Clay Pierce and his associates checked the effort of John D. Rockefeller and the Standard Oil interests to take absolute control of the Waters-Pierce Oil company.

The prize at stake is shown by the sworn testimony in a recent suit that the Waters-Pierce concern in one year declared a dividend of $240,000. The capital stock is $400,000.

Although Standard interests own 68 per cent of the stock of the company, the Pierce interests refused to count the ballots of John D. Rockefeller, John D. Archbold and their associates, on the ground that they were attempting to perpetuate the Standard Oil trust under a new system, in contravention of the decree of the United States supreme court dissolving the Standard Oil company and the decree of the Missouri supreme court ousting it from the state.

TO COURT MARTIAL GEN. AINSWORTH

Adjutant General Accused of Insubordination.

FRICION FOR LONG TIME

His Many Clashes With General Wood and Secretary of War Lead to Plans to Oust Him.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The long expected culmination of the Wood-Ainsworth feud in the war department came in the form of an order from Secretary Stimson, relieving Major General Frederick C. Ainsworth of his duties as adjutant general of the army and directing him to remain in Washington awaiting disciplinary measures.

Orders for the court-martial of General Ainsworth, who as adjutant general, is the second ranking officer in the army, are expected to be issued within a few days. The charge will be insubordination, based on derogatory references to the secretary of war, the chief of staff and officers of the general staff, which General Ainsworth incorporated into many of his official reports.

The announcement created a sensation in all official Washington. It is considered certain that the Ainsworth case will develop into the biggest military controversy since the Sampson-Schley affair in the navy.

While the charges have not been framed, it is understood they will be based on conduct to the prejudice of root order and discipline.

Serious friction long has existed between the adjutant general's office and the general staff. The crisis came when Secretary of War Stimson said to the adjutant general in connection with the muster pay rolls, and Secretary Stimson felt that the adjutant general had used language that impugned his own integrity and fairness, as well as that of other officers of the department.

The record shows that General Ainsworth remarked that it would be difficult if not impossible to formulate any statement that would carry conviction to any one unimpaired of consequences or so uninformed as to the needs of the government and the public.

It was assumed that he referred either to the secretary or to the officers of the general staff. Again the adjutant general characterized the staff proposal as a mere subterfuge of the kind that would be scorned by honorable men, and that the proponents "had been rayed a lamentable lack of knowledge."

He also spoke of "the cool assurance" of other officers, and remarked that "it will be worse than useless to present further facts or arguments here." It also is charged that General Ainsworth insinuated improper motives on the part of the chief of staff in relieving certain recruiting officers.

Secretary Stimson in a note to General Ainsworth said that rudeness and ill-treatment had become habitual on the part of the latter.

He also declared the Ainsworth report to be the culmination of a series of outbreaks evidencing "such intolerance of insubordination and such readiness to impugn the motives or the intelligence of those with whom it is our duty to work in association as, if corrected, to destroy your usefulness to your present office."

Regarding the attack upon himself, Secretary Stimson said he had referred the affair to the president, who directed a General Ainsworth's release pending disciplinary measures. General Edward Wood, chief of staff, has had many clashes with General Ainsworth.

SAY CASHIER STOLE $2173

Clinton Lehr Said to Have Confessed to Embezzlement.

Easton, Pa., Feb. 16.—Clinton Lehr, aged twenty years, cashier at the freight office of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company in Easton, was arrested, charged with the embezzlement of $2173.50. Young Lehr furnished $2500 bail for a hearing.

For eleven months Lehr was cashier of the freight office. So cleverly did he cover up his steps, it is alleged, that it was only until about a week ago that it was discovered that there was a shortage in his accounts.

When confronted with the charge by Mr. App. Lehr confessed, it is said it is asserted that he had been entering his friends on his rides.

Thief Gets $1000; Overlooks $600.

Salisbury, Md., Feb. 16.—Bernard Denson, of Westpottin Ferry, drew $1000 from the bank and placed the money in a safe in his store. Some one who seemed familiar with the premises took the package containing the $1000 from the safe, which was not locked. The thief overlooked another package containing $600, which was in the same safe.

COULD HAVE SAVED MONEY

You can save money by spending it right, as well as by laying it aside.

For instance there are many people who do not buy the right medicine for their ailments, and pay out many dollars before they learn just what to do.

Mrs. Alex. Dumas, of Malone, N. Y., knows this now. She says "A very heavy cold settled on my lungs last winter and for three months I coughed almost constantly. At night I could hardly get any sleep. I tried several medicines but none of them did me any good. Then I thought I would use Vinol and it began to help me cough from almost the first dose. "I do not cough at all now. I can sleep well and have gained much strength, all because I took your splendid tonic."

When you buy Vinol for your cough, or to build you up you are getting the best remedy that can be had and will not need to experiment with any others. We guarantee Vinol to do you good, and will give back your money if you are not well satisfied. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.
